COME TO MY HEART ONCE AGAIN.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER BY ARTHUR SINCLAIR.

Why do you treat me so coldly? Once I was dear to your heart, Give me one glance of affection. Just for a word must we part? Friends have we been since our childhood. Friends we should ever remain; Am'I no longer your dear one? Come to my heart once again !

CHORUS-Clasp hands once more ! Smile as of yore!

Life without thee would be pain: Am I no longer your dear one? Come to my heart once again !

Can you forget every gladness? Tell me your heart is the same; You are the star o'er my pathway, Mine all the sorrow and blame All would be lonely without you, Wherefore the frown on your brow? Am I no longer your loved one? True is my heart to you now!

Tell me that all is forgiven, Whisper the Past you forget! Let us be friends in the future, Fond as the days we first met! Smile on the one who adores you; Turn into joy every pain. Am I no longer your loved one? Come to my heart once again!

THE CAPTAIN'S JUSTICE.

ADAPTED FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER BY DUDLEY VAN ZANDT

Capt. MacDonald had just returned home with his crack sailer. He had made an unexpectedly quick passage, as if wind and waves had known how he longed for his sweet little wife, whom he had not seen for a whole long year, having been obliged to leave her, after a honeymoon of a few short weeks to sail for the East Indies.

And now he was home again. His heart thumped like a hammer in his breast, and he pictured to him self in glowing colors all the charm of the surprise

He had left his lovely bride in his comfortable home, with a distant widowed relative for a com panion, and her only son, George Hepworth, for a protector. He would see how faithfully they had watched over her.

The maid servant received him in the anteroom and, although he made a sign to her to go away, she glided into the sitting room, with a strange smile playing about her mouth, announced him, came back, and took his overcoat from him.

He now entered quickly. Fanny stood already in the door, and with a shout of joy he caught her up in his arms like a child. And now, over there in the window, he saw George Hepworth looking out. The young man had discreetly turned away, in order not to disturb them.

But MacDonald also embraced him in his great He was so unreservedly, so effusively happy that he noticed no embarrassment. At that mor even the presence of a king would not have been able to tear his little wife out of his arms.

"Listen," said the captain, finally; "I sail in a few days for Leith, in beautiful Scotland, instead of back to the East Indies, and I am going to take Fanny—my sweet little Fanny, with me," and, turning to Hepworth, he went on: "My dear George, if you have a mind, come along with us. It will be a pleasant Spring voyage. Then, while the ship is discharging her cargo, we will take a trip to the Highlands—a sort of little excursion of from three to four days. It will be delightful!"

Fanny went into ecstasies, while George stroked his long mustache, and feebly attempted a thankful refusal, for "they hadn't seen each other in such a long time, he was afraid he would be in the

But MacDonald always meant everything in earn est that he said, and did not give in. Then Hep-worth did not let himself be begged further, but accepted the invitation, and finally left the room, "in order not to disturb them any longer.

Fanny stood before her husband, her head inclined a little to one side, a smile on her lips, her blue eyes turned toward him with a singular, lan guishing expression. He knew this way of hers of looking so; sometimes it had surprised him; it always seemed then as if she was distraught, and yet waited for something—a strange trait of winning amiableness, of which her heart appeared to kno nothing. On board, when he thought of her, she had indeed stood so at times before his mind's eye but that she now looked at him so was quite new to him, and in order to overcome his surprise he clasped her to him again with all the power of his Strange, strange! She kept looking at him so and he felt as if he could not speak to her about it t might have hurt her feelings.

"But how droll it is!" he thought a couple of days later, as he went on business to his agent, and involuntarily he laughed out loud.

Then a gentleman, who was walking close behind him, slapped him on the shoulder, exclaiming: "You are devilish merry!"

It was a retired pilot, who had been his guardian, and who was called by him uncle, although he bore no relationship to him whatever.

"Well, yes, uncle," said the captain, shaking the outstretched hand, "I am devilish happy, indee particularly so, because I am not going to sail to the East Indies again, but only to Scotland, and so take my wife with me !"

be praised!" came from the old gentleman; and he added more temperately: "I only mean that you spare yourself the pain of a fresh separation, and the voyage will also do her good; besides, yo will have a chance to be quite by yourselves for

"Well," replied McDonald-and at that moment occurred to him how right the old man was; but it was too late—"well," he said, "not quite by our selves, after all, for I have invited George Hepworth

The old man stopped short, and turning full

"He didn't accept it, did he?"

'Well, why shouldn't he, uncle?'

'So-so-well-you know-listen to me-take my advice, and throw the fellow overboard if it is still practicable! Don't take him with you; I can't bear the fellow! Go alone with your wife!"

MacDonald made no reply, murmured, as if unthinking, a couple of words, greeted, and turned, mechanically, toward his agent's office.

What did the old gentleman really mean? He had evidently said more than he had intended—and yet

The captain's heart almost stopped beating. The big, strong man trembled, and leaned against the door post; he could not think clearly; he felt the hot | not forsake me the Scotch coast. Triumphant, the white sails swelled out, the ship flew before the light wind, and at last hove in sight of the beautiful city. They anchored not far from the long Leith pier, and the incomparable beauty of this northern, almost always, especially now in the early morning, slightly veiled coast spoke to the heart of the unhappy skipper s soothing and softening language. His eyes filled with tears, and he felt like one recovering from a severe illness, and, drawing a long breath, said to

"Indeed, I know nothing at all!" I have conducted myself like a madman on the mere blind suspicion? Release me, oh, God, from the evil-do boat is too heavy, the wind is rising. One man is sufficient," he said to one of the sailors.

And now he dragged the two around everywhere, and where he had not at first intended to go at all, until finally, late in the afternoon, they wandered through old Holywood Castle.

Above, in Mary Stuart's bedchamber, which lies in the North wing of the ancient edifice, and where the objects used by Mary still show the last glitter of decayed spiendor, here Fanny stood with a slight shudder in her impenitent heart, a strange fear creeping over her.

A ray of the setting sun fell through the windows upon the faded gobelin, which represents genii, plunging horses and mail clad knights. The door

"And her eyes-oh, her eyes! Aye, gladly would he have destroyed these false eyes with the shame ful, languishing, longing look! What do you think he suffered? Yes, yes, what do you think, indeed? Then he became calm suddenly—and then came the revenge! Thank God that it came! How his heart must have reveled when the false woman raised her hands to him beseechingly, and cried out, 'Spare nim, spare him !

"And he held her fast by these white hands, and saw how she writhed and quivered in her torture— in the same torture that he had suffered! Oh, what agony it is to be obliged to lose everything we so boundlessly love! And the wretched coward, the parasite at this table, mortally wounded, supplicated and groaned on the floor, while Darnley con-tinued to hold the guilty woman with his strong hands. She must not approach—she must not touch the dying man with her royal person, for it would have been mercy. Then—then they dragged him out like a dog. Do you see it? That's a traitor's blood; it sends out its warning voice through the centuries, that all false hearts shall

MacDonald stopped, and looked at his wife. The false smile was no longer there, nor the longing glance; she was as pale as a dying person, and trembled slightly.

He did not deign to look at George Hepworth any

Then he got up, and they quickly left the castle, behind which the last, deep red shine of sunset stretched itself in long streaks, and threw glimmering points on the small clouds hurrying toward the east. The wind had risen, and blew cold as ice from the cliffs.

They rode back through the town, along Leith walk. It had grown completely dark; the pale moon and isolated stars peeped out among the masses of clouds over the sea. When they came to the pier the waves were running high, and lashed the foam un into their faces.

The yawl lay ready. MacDonald took hold of the rudder. The rower sat upon the middle seat, Fanny and Hepworth in front. A white light burned in the bow of the boat, and its glare fell at times on the Captain's face. Fann's saw with a shudder that it wore a caim, pittless, frightful expression. The yawi now glided alongside the ship; the sailor sprang up and caught hold of the chain wales, in order to pull the boat close to the vessel. Slowly MacDonald now rose also, and seized the ladder. He turned round and cried in a hoarse "Hold fast to Fanny !"

Both had risen, and Hepworth took the trembling woman by the arm.

As the captain, now pressing the side of the yawl far down, shoved it off with one foot, with the other he swung himself on the accommodation ladder. Thrown backwards, Fanny and Hepworth fell into the water, and at the same moment the boat canted. The sailor, who had remained hanging to the chain wales, cried out loudly in a singing tone:

"Two men overboard!"

McDonald was silent. On board there were cries and a skurrying of feet, The boatswain sprang down the rope ladder with a lantern; below stood his captain, his head bent far over, following with staring eyes the moonlight that now fell upon the sea.

The yawl was already floating far away—nothing was to be seen of the two!

A couple of swimmers followed it with life pre-servers. The large boat was let down, but they did not find a trace.

"For God's sake, captain," said the boatswain, "don't stand there so! Do something—do say something—give an order—only don't stand there so not so—for God's sake, captain!"

Then MacDonald turned, and climbed up the ladder, slowly, looked up into the blue sky, and said in "Almighty God, I have meted out my justice. Now judge Thou me one day according to Thy mercy !!!

RHODA CAMERON

Was born in Louisiana, and is of French and Span-ish ancestry. She was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent, St. Michael's, sixty miles above New Orleans. In 1891 she came to New York and began studying for the operatic stage, but through an attack of la grippe lost her voice and was cons quently obliged to abandon hopes of success in that direction. She was thus led to turn her course toward the dramatic stage, and secured an engage remained for two seasons. Following this engage ment, her father having died, she rested for iel Frohman as a member of the stock company of the Lyceum Theatre. With this organization during the past season, Miss Cameron has done excellent work, which has not only received unan imous praise, but which has won for her a place among the favorites of the New York public.

TWO DEADHEADS.

At a recent gathering of notable men the after linner chat turned upon personal experiences, and a distinguished jurist related this:

After graduation he migrated to a Western town. Months of idieness, with no prospect of improvement, induced him to seek a new home. Without money to pay his fare he boarded a train for Nashville, intending to seek employment as reporter on one of the daily newspapers. When the conductor called for his ticket he said:

"I am on the staff of the ----, of Nashville. I suppose you will pass me?"

The conductor looked at him sharply.

"The editor of that paper is in the smoker. Come with me. If he identifies you, all right " He followed the conductor into the smoker. The situation was explained. Mr. Editor said:

Oh, yes, I recognize him as one of the staff. It is all right.

Before leaving the train the lawyer again sought

"Why did ou say you recognized me? I'm not on your paper,"

"I am not the editor, either. I'm traveling on his pass, and was scared to death lest you should give me away .- The Fushions.

"What do you think he suffered? She, in her proud beauty, in her royal security, did not take even the time to think of it! Oh, how ardently he hated her then, when he saw her white fingers, which had once fondled him, now embrace the other! He would have liked to tear her limbs asunder; he would have liked to seize her, cover her false face with mad kisses, tear her heart out of her bosom, pull it in pieces, throw it down and trample under foot her sinful body like a snake!

The office door opened; people came out, some went in—he still stood there with one shoulder leaning against the door post.

Finally it passed over, and he stepped into the office. The agent, a friend of his youth, looked at him with a strange, scrutinizing glance, and then "MacDonald, old man, is anything the matter with

A frightful suspicion rose, at this compassionat tone, in the captain's soul. "My God, are people already talking?—and what?" He gave a forced laugh, and said

"I'm not quite myself. A bad cold that I caught a few weeks ago aboard ship still clings to my bones "God be praised," said the other, "if that's all it

And this also gave MacDonald a stab. Two days later they were on the high sea. Not for the world would he have left him behind this good looking, ever amiable distant relative. No indeed. He wanted to have both of them under his eyes, and no one should entertain even a presenti ment of the fire of the wild passion that raged in his heart. She was always gentle and pliant as a kitten, and often, innumerable times, she looked at him, with her little head inclined to one side, out of tender, languishing eyes MacDonald had loved and treated her like a fragile toy-gently, almost reverently. Now he was be her by a wild, mad passion, threatening, annihilating, reckless. After such hours of torturing agitation he rushed on deck, sent the man at the helm or the boatswain to the free watch, and performed their duty himself. Then he wept—and wept aloud into the night, and struck his breast with his clinched hands, murmur-

"How-how will it end?" After a short and delightful voyage, with favorable winds and bright sunshine, warm nights with calm full moon in the rich, starry sky, they approached

They now made together the trip to the Highlands | of the narrow little room behind it w like three true companions. The captain was filled with a tenderness and kindness, with a thankful ness towards the world and mankind. He was a path finder on the heights of the Highlands, free in the sweet breath of Spring, and an inspire narrator of the sayings and heroic songs, which are the others listened to him with astonishment. When they had returned on board they deter

Now he knew, and in the seconds he took to return to the ladder the fate of both was decided. He went ahead into the boat, and as Fanny now appeared, smartly descending with her elegant little feet, he gallantly offered her his hand. She saw tha he was ghastly pale and had pressed his lips hard together

"Aren't you well?" she asked, softly, looking at him with the glance and smile that were so enig matical to him.

Suddenly he knew that also! Palse and lurking was the look! The lips smiled perfidy and lies! Yes it was that—it had always been that—formerly s equettish allurement for strangers, now a mask for him! He could have thrown himself upon this smiling doll's face and torn it to pieces!

CHICAGO, May 7.—Unusually hot weather, with a lively series of thunder showers, which have come at 7.30 each evening since Saturday, has had a bad effect upon all the houses. Of the new plays in town the performance of "Mme. Sans Gene," by Mme. Rejane, at the Columbia, surpasses all other attractions in the point of interest shown by the fashionable people of the city. Prices for this engagement have been elevated to about the grand opera scale, yet the attendance was excellent. Mme. Rejane was enthusiastically greeted, and the audience tried hard to appland in the proper place throughout the performance. Mr. and Mrs. Kendal presented "The Ironmaster" to a large house at Hooley's. In consequence of the illness of Marion Lea the part of Athenaess, in "The Ironmaster," was performed at short notice by Nellie Campbell, and that of Susanne Derblay (formerly impersonated by Miss Campbell) was played by Adah Barton. — Referee French handed down his decision, May 2, in the case of Playwright Albert R. Haven against Sol Smith Russell, which was brought in the Rochester, N. Y., courts. Several years ago Mr. Russell engaged Mr. Haven to dramatize the life of Abraham Lincoln for him. Mr. Haven was to submit a synopsis to Mr. Russell for approval, and, if satisfactory, he was to receive $1,000 and then complete the play, on which, if satisfactory to Mr. Russell, Mr. Haven was to receive a royalty of $100 for each week's performance. The synopsis was accepted and the $1,000 paid. The play when finished, however, was not satisfactory, and it was never produced. Mr. Haven then brought action for $1,000 damages. Referee French, in his opinion, finds that Mr. Haven failed to write the play satisfactorily to Mr. Russell; that accordingly the actor was justified in declining to produce it, and that by the terms of the contract Mr. Haven had no right to compensation further than the first payment of $1,000 for work accepted by the actor.

Last Week's Events.-The past week was entirely devoid of novelties, and the few events compassed within its limits were more interesting than important. During the early part of the week inclement weather injuriously affected business, but prosperity came along with clear skies, and the final showing of balances was quite satisfactory.
....The continued performances for the week

"The Derby Mascot" at the American, Francis Wilson at the HARLEM OPERA HOUSE, and "Oliver Twist" at the Columbus..... Variety entertainment was furnished at Tony Paston's, Koster & Bial's, the UNION SQUARE, PROCTOR'S, the LONDON, the CASINO, DORIS', the OLYMPIC, and MINER'S BOWERY and EIGHTH AVENUE.... Performances in German were given at the Invino Place and Germania, and performances in Hebrew at the Thalla, Windbook and Adler's.... At the Methopolitan Opera House the Abbey & Grau Grand Opera Co. presented, on April 29, Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro," as mentioned in our last issue. The supplementary season came to a close upon the succeeding evening, when the following varied programme was presented: Scene first, act third, "Lohengrin;" second scene of act second, "Falstaff;" mad scene from "Lucia," first scene of act third of "Die Meistersinger," two songs by Maurel, and the third act of "Aida." The en-thusiasm of the audience found full vent. The stage was crowded with flowers, and in addition to these floral tributes the favorite singers received gifts of gold and silver, fashioned into various use-ful and ornamental objects. Among others who were kindly remembered in this distribution of favors was the conscientious and invaluable Mile. Bauermeister, who received from the Opera Club an enormous basket of roses, wherein she found hidden a gold watch set with brilliants. Great as have been the achievements of the various prin-cipals of the company, none have more thoroughly merited tokens of appreciation than has this hard working and reliable singer, whose name has become identified with grand opera successes in this country; and from the prodigal mass of favors be-stowed on those who have contributed so largely to the success of this, the finest season of grand opera our city has ever had, we gladly single out this incident, because we are happy to put upon record this evidence of the recognition of this lady's claim upon public esteem......At Abbry's Thratre, on April 29, the Lillian Russell Opera Co. appeared in a magnificent revival of Offenbach's three act opera bouffe, "La Perichole." This was Miss Russell's first metropolitan appearance in this opera, although she had already been seen in it this season in other cities. She was more than satisfactory in the role of the fascinating street singer of Lima, and has rarely, if ever, done better work. While it is true she was not comparable to the famous French singers who, years ago, made us familiar with the role she nevertheless gave a very spirited performance and did more and better acting than she has shown for several years. Her singing was also commend Richie Ling afforded a pleasant surprise in the role of Piquillo, his acting and singing each dis playing merits of which his former work had scarcely given intimation. Fred Soloman, also, was at his best in the role of the Viceroy, and Owen Westford, whom we have previously had occasion to commend, did excellent work as the old prisoner. The staging of the opera was truly sumptuous. The stage pictures were entrancingly beautiful, and the grouping and handling of the forces added new laurels to the brow of Max Freeman, already oppressed with the weight of many such symbols of triumph. Altogether the produc-tion afforded a rare and delightful treat. The work was thus cast: Piquillo, Richie Ling; Don Andres, Viceroy of Peru, Fred Solomon; Don Pedro, Gov-ernor of Lima, William Blaisdell; Le Marquis, Owen Westford; Count Panatelias, George Honey; The Jailer, J. P. Canduit; First Notary, George MacKen-zie; Second Notary, James Peakes; Guadalena, can production in December last, in this city, re-turned from a successful tour and began on April 29 an engagement at the ACADEMY OF MUSIC, where its opening house gave promise of a satisfactory run.....The IBVING PLACE THEATER closed its season April 30. The final offering was "Die Journalisten," the author of which, Gustav Freytag, died at Jaten," the author of which, Gustay Freytsg, died at Wiesbaden on the same date, news of his decease having been received at the theatre and announced during the performance... At the EMPIRK THEATRE "The Importance of Being Earnest" was withdrawn after the evening performance May 1, and upon the following evening R. C. Carton's delightfully pure and thoroughly interesting play, "Liberty Hall," was revived and joyfully received. The cast was mainly the same that contributed so largely to the same the same that contributed so largely to the success of the play during its run at this house, but as some changes have been made the recent cast is appended: Mr. Owen, Henry Miller: Blanche Chilworth, Viola Allen; Amy Chilworth, Agnes Miller; Hon. Gerald Tanqueray, Robert Edeson; William Todman, W. H. Crompton; J. Briginshaw, E. Y. Backns; Mr. Pedieck, Geo. E. Bryant; Mr. Hickson, J. P. Whitman; Miss Hickson, Genevieve Reynolds; Robert Binks, Arthur Boylan; Crafer, May Rob-son; Lusoombe, John Sorentz. While all of the principals were heartily greeted in the roles which they fill so well, especial pleasure was derived from again seeing that conscientious, reliable and deservedly favorite actor, W. H. Crompton, in a role commensurate with his powers, and of the sort for which he has proven himself to be so thoroughly fitted by reason of training and temperament. In such plays there is mental rest and moral nourishment, and in in such roles as fall to his lot in plays of this sort Mr. th such roles as fail to his of thi piays of this soft Mr. Crompton's lips seem always about to utter "benedici-te," and the unspoken word finds voice within each heart that is under the spell of his influence. "Lib-erty Hall" was again seen evening of 3 and matinee 4, and the week closed with a single performance of "Gudgeons," A performance which was arranged and managed by Viola Allen was given at the EMPIRE THEATRE, afternoon of May 2, for the benefit of the Hariem Exchange for Women's Work, and which netted about $1,000 for that institution. Three familiar one act plays were performed, viz:

"The Man Up Stairs," "Frederick Lemaitre" and
"Rosebery Shrub, Sec." A number of well known professionals furnished additional entertainment of varied sorts.... At the Garrier Theatree Richard Mansfield was seen during the week in the following repertory of plays: "A Parisian Romance" April 29 and May 2, "The Scarlet Letter" April 30, "Prince Karl" May 1, "Beau Brummel" 3 and matines 4. and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" evening of 4...... Summer season of grand opera in English began at the STAR THEATRE on April 29, the company which then appeared having organized, for this special purpose, ender the title of the New York Grand English Opera Co. Their first offering was "The Bohemian Girl," mention of the performance of which was made in our last issue. This opera again given May 1. Verdi's "il Trovatore" This opera was given April 30, with Anna-Lichter as Leonora, Helen von Doenhoff as Azucena, Victor Ciccito as Manrice; and Arthur Seaton as the Count. Gounod's "Faust" was the offering May 2, with Marcella Lindh as Marguerité, Franklin Miller as Faust, Abram Abram off as Mephistopheles, Lucille Saunders as Siebel, Perry Averill as Valentine, and Jennie Flower Cross as Martha. "Il Trovatore" was repeated 3, and "Faust" was again given at the matinee 4, but upon evening of 4 the season came to an inglorious end because of the non-payment of salaries. There was no performance on that night and the admission money was refunded. SUNDAY ENTERTAINMENTS On May 5 included Den Wesley Rosenquest and Emeline Colville, for two months' rent of the Bijou Theatre. Henry B. Sire, who owns the property, leased it to the plaintiffs, who sublet it to the defendants. They deposited $4,500 as security, and say that they allowed judgment to be taken in order to determine whether the rent should be paid to Mr. Sire or to the plaintiffs. They also wish to know whether the security deposited may be applied to the payment of the rent. Judge Booksfaver stayed all proceedings, the defendants filing a bond in $5,000.

EMPIRE THEATRE.-Sydney Grundy's interesting play, "Sowing the Wind," was revived at this house May 6, in the presence of a small audience. The meagreness of the attendance upon the revival of a play which had formerly received such abundant patronage furnished conclusive evidence that thea-ter going as a social function is at an end here for this season, a fact which will not be greatly de plored at this house, which is soon to close its doors for the Summer recess. Those present, however, were by no means lacking in enthusiasm, and the play and its performers were never more heartily applanded. Nor did the leading players ever more thoroughly deserve plandits than upon this occasion. The work of Henry Miller, Viola Allen; do we might be well content to challenge the world to rival our actors could we present on our part such a performance as is given by these players in this drama. William Faversham might be included in the roll of honor were it not for his constant staginess and his affectations of speech. He is undoubtedly a clever actor, a fact which, unfortunately, he never disguises nor conceasis, for he is always recognized as an actor playing a part, too conscious of his own presence and identity to permit it for a moment to be ignored or lost in illusion. May Robson and Agnes Miller, who were seen in their former roles, were quite satisfactory, as was also Robert Edeson, who assumed the role formerly played by Cyril Scott. S. E. Sortinger, to whom was assigned the difficult task of filling the role created here by that incomparable actor, W. H. Thompson, was overweighted with the job, and, without comparison with his predecessor, was unsatisfactory. He seemed somewhat bent upon making a comedy creation of the part, and was evidently undecided as to the advisability of making Lord Petworth an Englishman or an irishman, the consequence being a display of dialect versatility rarely bestowed upon a single role. The full cast is given as a matter of record. Mr. Brabazon, Henry Miller: Mr. Watkin, W. H. Corompton; Ned Annesley, William Faversham; Lord Petworth, S. E. Springer; Sir Richard Curstor, Robert Edeson; Mr. Peakin, E. Y. Backus; Glossop, John Sorentz; Webb, J. P. Whitman; Rosamond, Viola Allen; Hon. Mrs. Fretwell, May Robson; Maud Fretwell, Agnes Miller; Bridget, Genevieve Reynolds. The season at this house is in its last fortnight, and this play will be continued until further notice plored at this house, which is soon to close its door for the Summer recess. Those present, however,

CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE MUSIC HALL.-The season at this house was inaugurated May 6, and the event was honored by the presence of a large audience. Since the house closed last Fall new decorations have been added to the interior, which everywhere nave been added to the interior, which everywhere indicates the work of the palner and decorator by its general fresh appearance. As soon as the weather permits two Summer gardens will be opened, one on the second floor, the same as last Summer, and a new one on the ground floor. The bill presented on Monday night was thoroughly appreciated, and each number was accorded full recognition by the audience. Flaikowsky, animal imitator, appeared and was the same pleasing entertainer as ever. It would be hard to find a more clever performer in his line than M. Flaikowsky, and his popularity increases with each successive appearance. Geo. K. Fortescue and Dick Gorman, in a sketch, entitled "My New Teacher," were exceedingly amusing, and won well merited plaudits. Josie Gregory rendered a budget of songs, and the Rixfords, acrobats, were clever. Others on the bill were Mile. Beatrice, high kicker and dancer; Matthews and Harris, in a sketch; James Gaylor, comic singer; the Goldens, sketch; James Gaylor, comic singer; the Goldens, sketch performers, and Henry Fenton, hand balancer, all of whom were well received. indicates the work of the painter and decorator by Dalsy Mayer and her band of pickaninnies afforded considerable amusement, and Bonnie Thornton added new admirers to her already long list. James F. Hoey (Young Mule) was as adroil as ever, and Harris and Walters created laughter with their whimsleafities. Masaud and Marba, acrobatic comedians; Maud Baymond, serio comic singer; the Laport Sisters, gharacter singers; Bendey and Greve, musical mokes; Mabel Hudson, soprano singer; Corman and West, eccentries; the Majiltons, Chinese conjurers; Jeuny Eddy, soubrette; the Odells, grotesques; Gallagher and Griffin, Irish knockabouts; Hugh J. Emmett, ventriloquist; Annie Sylvester, bicyclist; Edward Rogers, Irish comedian and dancer, and Charlotte, singer and dancer, all contributed their full share to the entertainment.

HUBER'S PALACK MUSRUM—The second week of the female barbers opened May 6, with a good sized crowd in attendance. That this attraction has proven a success cannot be denied, and should business keep up for the remainder of their four weeks' engagement, Manager Huber will have cleared a snug sum. Prof. Langdon gives a very interesting talk regarding the barbers, which is almost as much a source of amusement as it is to watch the girls handle their subjects. Other features in the curio halls are Stephen Stephens, ventriloquist; Mile Turnour, aerialist; the Pujol Bros, and their performing bears; Prince Tiny Mite, Dexter, Jas. Mitcheil and H. C. Palmer. Stage—Coles and Wiley. Ed. Begley, Minnie Cline, Astarte, King Sisters, Fiske and Ogden, and Antonio Von Gofre. This month Mr. Schult hierads giving an exhibition of his trained Great Dane dogs. These annuals have been in training since January, and are said to be able to do some very elever tricks.

Barrick Thexarks.—Richard Mansfeld and his company appeared in "Prince Karl" May 6. Two public dress rehearsals their annual benefit on May 31, afternoon and evening.

THE CASINO.—The princips figging of this week's programme here is the first American appearance of the Milons, a troupe of European acrobats. Among the other performers who appeared on May 6 were Papinta, the Yascarrs, the Forrest Bross. Kokin, Mile, Marguerite, Lizzie B. Baymond, Brooks, Denton and Ossman, Gouget and the Manhattan Comedy Four. The ballet, and the kinetoscopic pictares from "Triby" continus.

Horse's Mussum.—The Triby Beauty Contest, in which several good looking women are competing for prizes, the winners to be decided by the votes of Manager Doris' patrons, began their second week May 6. Vandevlije performances continue in the theatre hall.

May 6. Vandeville performances continue in the theatre hall.

Alther's Bowery Theate.—The American Gaiety Girls, under the management of Fred Harvey and Andy Lewis, are filling an engagement at Jis house this week. The house on Monday night, May 8, was yell filled. The Mistakeu Marriage" opened the show, introducing the company in songs and comedy. Florence Zellar, vocalist; Cooper and Stewart, black face comedians; the Elliott Sisters, in songs and dances; the Stanfords, in musical comedy. And I lewis, comedian; the Elliott Sisters, in songs and dances; the Stanfords, in musical comedy. And I lewis, comedian; Reynoll's Electric Sensation ("Tarce Creole Beautics"), and the Gotham City Quartes made up the ollo. "The Bony Prince" concluded the performance. The company is brooked for next season at good houses. For next week the benefit of the Actors' Protective Union, No. 1, is sunounced, a compare change of programme being made at each performance. A large number of performers have volunteered their services for the occasion.

Instanday Theatric.—"Aladdin Jr." entered on May 9 apon the 19th week and last fortuight of its run. Aboug the many new features added to it during its say here the T-thy quadrile has proven the most attractive. The berlesque has evidently found many admirers here, for its business has been satisfactory.

Falmer's Theatre.—"Addie Christopher" began

tory. PALMER'S THEATER.—"Lattle Christopher" began on May 6 the fourth week of the run at this house, and at the same time its two guadred and fifteen performance was duly celebrated and made the occasion for the distribution of sourches, as usual. The extravaganza seems to thrive on Broadway and will, doubtless, run far into the Summer.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—The close of the season of a number of traveling vaudeville shows makes Resident Manager Fynes' task of booking star features a very easy matter, for there are a great many variety stars in the city at presen are a great many variety stars in the city at present anxious to play before a Keith andience. The bill presented this week, beginning May 6, has as head-lines Lottle Glison ("the little magnet"), McIntyre and Heath, who have no superiors in their line; Harry Le Clair and Ed. Leslie, the originators of their style of work, and John C. Rice and Sally Cohen. Miss Glison introduced all new songs, and showed very conclusively that she was capable of snowed very conclusively that sne was capable of holding her own with Mr. Ketth's clientel as easily as at any other house in the city, sithough she sang different styles of songs than those she has been accussioned to sing. There was nothing in her different sithes of the styles o

The annual benefit for the Actors' Fund will be given at Painner's Theatre, afternoon of Thursday, May 9, when Estelic Clayton's new comic opera, "The Viking," music by the late E. J. Darling, arranged by Max Marczek, will be sung for the first time in this city. The opera had its initial presentation at New Haven, Ct., May 6. To increase the proceeds of the benefit flowers will be sold in the lobby by the ladies of the Twelfth Night Club, and the libretto and programmes by the children, under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Fernandez.

HERALD SQLARE THEATRE.—Frank Mayo's play, "Pudd'inhead Wilson," is meeting with well deserved success at this house, where it began May 6 the fourth week of its run. Mark Twysin's interesting story has been well bandled in the dramatization, and the stage creation of the title role adds greatly to Mr. Mayo's store of laurest. The supporting company is one of unusual strength, and the attention of the audiences is chained from the rise to the final fall of the curtain.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Wills Wife's Father' is still drawing excellent houses, despite the fact that on May 6 it enused upon the eleventh week of its run. Mr. Grane has never had a more entertaining play, nor one that suifed him better. Its run will evidently be profitably continued up to the warm weather time, and probably beyond it.

GANDEN THEATRE.—The magnificent production of "La Perichole," given by the Lillian Russell Opera Co., entered on May 8 upon its second and last week. There is much cause to regret so speedy a withdrawal, but it is necessitated by arrangements that have been made for the production of "La Perichole," given by the Lillian Russell Opera Co., entered on May 8 upon its second and last week. HOXT'S THRETRE.—"The Foundling" began the eleventh week of his run on May 6. It seems to tay to lost none of its drawing power, part of which, however, must be credited to Clasy Fitzgerald and to Augustus Thomas' excellent curfult raiser. "The Man Up Stairs."

STANDARD THEATRE.—"Too Much Johnson" is nearing its two hundredth performance. It entered May 6 upon the twenty-fourth week of its run.

Tony Paston's Theatre.—This popular resort was crowded Monday, May 6, when a strong bill of the usual straight variety sort ushered in the week. Vesta Tilley entered upon the third week of her downright successful engagement, and celebrated the event by adding to her repertory a new song, "I'm the Latest Imitation of the Prince." The words are the work of Arthur J. Lamb, a talented "I'm the Latest Imitation of the Prince." The words are the work of Arthur J. Lamb, a talented writer, who has contributed several taking songs, of which this last is perhaps the best. The language is excellently constructed, but the music required Miss Tilley's art to give its successful rendition. She was most cordially received and sang all the songs she has made popular during her present visit to this house of her success. Sam Bernard began the last half of a two weeks' stay and changed his act, adding a recitation of "The Life Boat," which met with vociferous applause. Fannie Mora made her American debut, but was seen to a great disadvantage owing to a serious injury to one of her ears, which prevented her distinguishing her own voice. Under these conditions it would seem unfair to pass criticism on her work, although it may be said that her voice is possessed of rather limited range, and is in no way remarkable for strength or tone. She bears a strong personal resemblance to her sister. Helene Mora, the accomplished baritone. Her costume was neat and her stage presence rather attractive. John and Nellie McCarthy were warmly welcomed by their friends, and created much amusement by their clever parody singing and fresh repartee. David Warfield made his first appearance at this house, and droll monologue. Estelle Wellington sang and danced herself into strong demand, and found an abundance of applause as her reward for clever work. Fanne Lealle performed many difficult feats of contortion, and by her neat execution gained much applause. Carr and Jordon were favorably received in their vocal contribution. Belle and Tillie La Verde opened the show with an acceptable song and dance turn, and the Three Martinette Brothers finished the bill, their acrobatic work being well received.

'Special Delivery," received its metropolitan premiere at this house on May 6. The drama was first produced at a Harlem theatre during the present season, when the story appeared in these columns. Mr. Scully has attempted to weave an interesting story about the life of a young postman, amid New York City surroundings, and in the main has succeeded in turning out quite a well constructed tale, if we allow our imagination full play regarding what could befall the aforesaid young postman. Of course he loves a young lady, and, as naturally follows, there is a bad man who tries to destroy our hero's happiness, through an accusation of murder, and also by trying, through the meanest of methods, to win the hand in marriage of the girl to whom he is betrothed. The author has not employed any new methods in plot or denouement to show us the rightful triumph of virtue over vice, and there are few situations or climaxes to compare even favorably with dramas of the kind. The last scenes are those of the New York Post Office and Old Harlem Bridge by moonlight. Even here it is very necessary, as stated above, to keep the imagination to high dramatic tension, in order to remain on good terms with the author of "Special Delivery." The dialogue of the drama is its strongest claim to favorable mention. The cast is quite competent, especially so in the case of Ralph Stuart, who enacts the character of Ned Carrington, the postman. Specialties were introduced under any and all circumstances, some of which were quite entertaining. The cast. Ned Carrington, Ralph Stuart; Jack Benton, John J. Collins; Dick Colton, E. L. Duane; Bob Sprightly, Harry Beresford; Will Carrington, Joe Dailey; Henry Howard, Harry Beresford; Supt. Bradley, Charles Gordon; Jinmy Mack, Emma Dunn; Hiram, Howard Powers; Officer Sullivan, Con Malvey; Bridge Tender, Charles Gayr; Wakeley, Henry Clark; Post Office Inspector, Edward Spears; Tom, Louis Spaulding; Clarence, Mort McKim; Central Office Detective, Gay Law; Agnes Howard, Tessie Deagle; Nellie Carrington, Emma Dunn; Mrs. Carrington, Mrs. Mary Mack, Josepha Crowell. Executive staff. J. J. Coleman, manager produced at a Harlem theatre during the present season, when the story appeared in these columns.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—The programme presented week of May 6 was up to the standard set by this popular resort, and was witnessed on Monday night by a well crowded house. The Craggs, acrobats six men and a boy, who made their appearance here 30, entered upon their second week. As acrobats these performers probably excel any others who have been seen in this country, some of their feats being little short of marveloss, while all are difficult and dangerous, as most of their work is done from shoulder to shoulder. Round after round of applause was accorded them, and they were forced to respond to six or eight recalls, and, had they been governed by the inclination of the audience, would have responded to many more. Stelling and Revell, burlesque bar performers, were announced, but did not appear, owing to an accident that befel Mr. Stelling while practicing. Their place was filled by a very elever juggler. Snitz Edwards made his first appearance here in a comedy sketch, entitled "The Little German Band," and created a great deal of laughter. The Rossow Brothers, liliputian athletes (twenty-seventh week); the Meers Brothers, acrobatte wire performers (fourth week); Hill and Hull, grotesques (sixth week); Ivan Tschernoff and his troupe of trained dogs (seventh week); Eigenie Fougere, chanteuse excentrique (second week); the Sisters Don, in songs and dances (sixth week), and Marion, Hayes and Marion, assisted by Misses Winship, Bishop and Warren, in "Ye Olde Time Belles and Beaux" (fifth week), were all popular holdovers. The programme concluded with the living pictures. "The New Woman," a new picture, was presented for the first time. The reappearance of Harriett Vernon is announced for next week. FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE.—"Captain Paul" continues to be the attraction at this house. It began May 6 its third week,

JOHN M. MACDONOUGH (Herbert J. Meyer) has leased the American Theatre roof garden for the Summer, and intends to open it about June 1.

WORTH'S MUSEUM.—Indications do not point to a likelihood of any change in the style of entertainment here, and colored minstrelsy continues to hold full sway in the theatre portion of the building. C. V. Moore, who organized and controls the company, will take it on four at the close of the season here.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"The Fatal Card" began May û its second week at this house. The play appears to have lost none of its popularity, and is greeted by good attendance nightly.

Harlem.—At the Harlem Opera House Camille D'Arville opened May 6, in "Madeleine, or the Magic Kiss," to the best Mondy night audience seen at this house in months, and made a good impression, receiving several curtaic calls and several foral pieces. NEW YORK STATE.

Brooklyn.—As the season draws to a close the managers are presenting some remarkably strong attractions, in some instances even better than were witnessed in the midst of the season. Each week seems to present a more attractive bill at the different playhouses than the preceding one. This is certainly so during the current week, when the theatregoers are given a choice variety from which they can make a selection. The novely is not so great as the pieces themselves are good.

COLINIA.—Edward Harrigan opened a two weeks' engagement May 6, when he appeared in "Reilly and the 400," while a large and enthusiastic audience. This piece will be played the first half of the week, and the last three days of this week, including Saturday's matines, the bill will be "Cordelia's Aspirations." Mr. Harrigan is very popular in this city, where he always draws hig house, and, if Monday night's crowd in a criterion, he should meet with success while in this city. DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

CHARLES W. FISH, the famous bareback rider, died May 5, at his home in Chicago, Ill., from blood poisoning. The deceased was born Nov. 23, 1848, in Philadelphia, Pa., and at the age of ten years his father placed him under the charge of James Mc Farland, who was then traveling with Spalding & Rogers' Circus, and the following year he was regularly indentured for a term of seventy-eight months to Charles J. Rogers, the junior partner of the firm. With Spalding & Rogers he traveled through most of with spating & Rogers he traveled through most of the Western, Southern and Middle States. He also traveled with them in Canada, and spent two years in touring Brazil, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo, and the West Indies. On their return from this trip they were wrecked on Long Beach Island, ten miles South of Barnegat Light, N. J., on April 2, 1864, and lost everything except three horses and the clothing worn by the members of the show. The indenture with Spalding & Rogers expired toward the close of 1864, and Mr. Fish then joined Frank Howe's Circus, at Nashville, Tenn., and for the first time received a salary beyond clothes and food. He soon after rejoined Spalding & Rogers at New Orleans, La., and for the first time saw James Robinson, at that time one of the leading bareback riders of the world. In the Spring of 1865 he joined S. B. Howe's Circus, taking Mr. Robinson's place. The following year he traveled with Mike Lipman's Circus, and in 1867 and '68 he was with Nixon, Costello & Howe's Circus, taking Mr. Robinson's place. The following year, near engagement to George Ryland, he went to California, where he created a sensation with his bareback trick riding. On his coming of age he secured a horse and joined J. E. Warner's Great Pacific Show. On Nov. 6, 1871, he became a member of L. B. Lent's Circus, then showing in the Hippothestron, in Fourteenth Street, this city, and continued there until April 13, 1872. THE RING.

O'DONNELL DEFEATS KILRAIN.

The Ex-Champion Not in It with the Young Australian.

Young Australian.

The Seaside Athletic Club provided three sets of boxers for the amusement of six thousand people at heir arena, May 13. and, although much of the sport was of the tame sort, the chief event of the night, a slated bout of twenty-five rounds between the Kilisha and Steve Olbernell, was made suited. hight, a sated both of twenty-five rounds between Jake Kilrain and Steve O'Donnell, was made quite interesting. A six round go between Martie McCue, of New York, and Frank Patterson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., to be contested at 1221b, was the opening wedge of the sport, and at the finish Referee Tim Hurst declared the setto a draw. Geo, F. Green, of California, known as Young Corbett, and Jim Holmes. nia, known as Young Corbett, and Jim Holmes, of this city, followed next for an announced eight round go, but before the finish of the seventh round Holmes asked the referee to stop the scrapping, which he did, giving the fight to Green. The attendance had been on the increase during the progress of the sport, and when Steve O'Donnell faced Jake Kilrain for twenty-one rounds of milling the arena was almost completely filled. Billy Delancy, John McVen, Mick Dunn and Benny Murphy were behind O'Donnell, while Kilrain's affairs were entrusted to Erne Gebhart, Billy Duke and L. A. Herford. O'Donnell weighed about 180th, and Kilrain tipped the scales at about 210th.

and L. A. Herford. O'Donnell weighed about 180b, and Kilrain tipped the scales at about 210b.

Title Fight.

2. They sparred for an opening. Steve's left fell short, and Jake jabbed him in the mouth. O'Donnell tried for the wind, but the blow was stopped. Then Steve landed a hot left on the nose and Jake clinched. Steve swung a right that ripped Jake's nose and made him snuff, but the Baltimorean evened it up with a good left on the neck.

3. Jake led with the left on the face and got a hand swing on the ear. Steve tried for the wind, but Jake's guard was too strong. Kilrain then got in both hands on the face and Steve staggered, as the blows were both hard. The Australian only laughed and came back quickly with a jab in the mouth. They exchanged lefts and clinched, and Jake got in a good one in the wind. O'Donnell's blows lacked steam and Jake's defence was good.

4. Jake's lead for the wind was stopped, but he sent his right to the neck all right. They got to close quarters, and Jake hammered his man on the jaw so hard that the crowd rose in their seats and yelled like mad. Steve then got in a right, but a heavy left in the mouth stopped his rush. He tried a body blow, but Kilrain laughingly stopped it. Kilrain's round.

5. After light sparring Steve landed a left on the nose; then he ran into Jake's left. They exchanged light swings, and Kilrain laughingly stopped it, when he ran into Jake's left. They exchanged light swings, and Kilrain laughingly stopped it, when he ran into Jake's left. They exchanged light as wings, and Kilrain laughingly stopped it, when he ran into Jake's left. They exchanged light as wings, and Kilrain laughingly stopped it, when he ran into Jake's left. They exchanged light as wings, and Kilrain laughingly stopped it, when he ran into Jake's left. They and o'Donnell drove his right over the heart. Jake's right for the head was stopped just as time was up. Honors even.

6. Jake put a straight left on the mouth, and Steve landed two swings on the neck. Jake rushed, but Steve ducked and clinched, and o'Donnell's left for the wind was stopped and Jake landed a good left on the jaw. They mixed it, and Klirain landed a heavy cross counter on the eye. Steve tried for the wind again, but it was stopped.

7. Steve shot a light left to the mouth. Then he tried three for the breadbasket, but each time Jake stopped the blow. They liddled for a minute, and then exchanged light blows on the head. Jake finally landed a heavy left on the mouth and got away from a hard swing.

8. Neither had a mark so far. Jake began with a left on the breast, and then swing his right on the chin. Jake drove his left to the mouth and got a hard swing on the nose. A clinch was followed by two jabs by Jake that landed squarely in the face, and then O'Donnell drew first blood with a right on the mouth.

9. Steve made Jake's nose bleed with a left, and the old fighter sniffed. Then O'Donnell landed two hard lefts on the mouth and got a light blow on the nose. Steve's left again landed, and Jake slugged him hard on the neck. O'Donnell landed three hot ones in the mouth just as the bell clanged. Steve was fighting faster now, and Jake seemed to be going back.

was nguling asser now, and Jake seemed to be going back.

10. Steve started with a left on the bruised nose. Then he rushed and Jake roughed it, clinching him. Then they exchanged swings at long range, and then steve put in three lefts on the face while Jake was hitting him once. O'Donnell hit his man right and left on the head and Kirain clinched. They then Steve put in three lefts on the face while Jake was hitting him once. O'Donnell hit his man right and left on the head and Kilrain clinched. They were sparring at the end.

11. O'Donnell landed a 'left on the jaw, but the blow was light. Then he tried his right for the heart, but it was neatly stopped. Steve shot his left for the wind, and this time it landed. His right went over the heart, and Jake sent a heavy left to the jaw. O'Donnell anded left and right on the head. Easily O'Donnell's round.

12. Jake's left reached the throat; then Steve jabbed him in the mouth twice and drew more blood. Jake got in a good left on the ear, but his right was defily stopped. Steve shot his left four times in quick succession on the mouth, but Jake drove a corker on the jaw, and the crowd roared. A red hot left spattered the blood all over Jake's face as the bell rang. All O'Donnell's round.

13. O'Donnell was slowly but surely wearing Kilrain out. Jake began this round with a left on the neck, but Steve kept close to him and jabbed his face unmercifully. Kilrain, however, mixed it and landed some hard swings on the neck and face. At close quarters Steve hit Jake in the wind and then ducked away from a swing. Steve slugged his man so hard that Jake was glad to sit down at the end.

14. Steve's left fell short, but his right reached the heart. In a niku up Jake received a couple of stiff body blows, but he sent a hard right to the neck. Steve shot a hard one on the mouth, and Jake clinched. Steve landed a half dozen body blows and Jake was tired at the end.

15. Light sparring for half a minute, then Steve put his left on the face, and Jake swing a hard left on the neck. Steve shot a hard one on the neouth, and gerous right swing as the bell rang.

right and left. Jake sent a hard one on the neck, but Steve slugged him right and left so that Kilrain had to clinch. O'Donnell landed a heavy body blow that sent Jake putling to his corner.

17. O'Donnell's right found the heart. Then Steve put in an upper cut in the wind. He followed this up with a series of jabs that put Jake clearly on the defensive. But Jake braced up after a bit, and punched his opponent with such good results that the crowd cheered him to the echo. Jake's nose was bleeding badly and his left eye was nearly closed as he sat down.

18. Steve put a hot left on the eye and got a cross counter on the mouth. Then the Australian landed a flerce body blow and swung his right on the nose. Jake railled, but O'Donnell met him, blow for blow. Steve put a hard left on the wind, and Jake landed a corker on the neck. Kilrain was dead game in spite of his awful punishment, and the crowd went wild over him.

19. O'Donnell began as usual with a left jab in the face, and then sent his right across. A heavy right on the wind made Jake reel. Although he fought back like a tiger and landed three heavy swings on the neck, Steve only laughed and kept on punching Jake all over the ring.

20. Jake led with a left on the mouth, but he quickly got a right over the heart; then he drove his left to Steve's nose, only to get a right on the Jake. O'Donnell forced his man all around the ring, but Kilrain took his punishment like a man and fought back with wonderful nerve. Jake's face and breast were covered with blood when he went to his corner. O'Donnell dorred his man all around the ring, but Kilrain took his punishment like a man and lay as if insensible. In about five seconds he got upon one knee and then smashed Kilrain on the wind with his right. Quick as a flash he shot his left to the point of the jaw and Jake recled and feli flat upon his back. He rolled over in the dust and lay as if insensible. In about five seconds he got upon one knee and then staggered to his feet, reeling like a drunken man. But the polic

Boxing Matches Declared Illegal.

Boxing Matches Declared Illegal.

The State Supreme Court at New Orleans, La., on May 6, in the Olympic Club case, held as follows:

"We do not presume that the Legislature intended to defeat the enacting clause by the proviso, but to medify or expiain it, or to except something that would otherwise fall with it. The statute intended to suppress prize fighting. Fighting in the arena of the club, as described in the record, is prize fighting, and no other explanation can be given to it. It is preceded by the training, the challenge, the attendance of seconds, of umpires and of surgeons, each of which is denied by the statute, and the fight is followed by all the attendant circumstances of a contest with naked hands. We concluded that the glove contests in the athletic club, or elsewhere, when the object is only for a display of the art of boxing, as generally understood and practiced, without the perquisites of training and challenge, and the attendant circumstances of a prize light, are not what are commonly known as 'prize fights, and, therefore, the proviso has no relation with the offense described by the statute."

The injunction prohibiting the Olympic Club from holding any more prize fights was accordingly made permanent. As there is no appeal from this decision, it is generally considered that it puts a permanent end to pugitism in New Orleans.

DAY CREEDON and Joe Dunfee are announced to State Supreme Court at New Orleans, La., or DAN CREEDON and Joe Dunfee are announced to try conclusions at the areas of the Atlantic Athletic Club, West Brighton, Coney Island, on the evening of May 30; also that Joe Walcott and Tem Tracy wil also come together on the same place and time. THE Senate of Florida, on May 6, passed the Anti Prize Fight Bill. It now goes to the House, and it is expected to pass without a doubt.

fourth inning, and this proved another excellent change. The latter made three safe hits, including a home run, out of as many times at bat. Esper pitched a good game for four innings, the home team making only one run and one safe hit off him.
In the fifth linning he began to get unsteady and gave two men their base on balls; these were followed by a double bagger, which netted two runs.
In the sixth inning three singles gave Brooklyn another run. Gleason was substituted in the seventh inning, and he blanked the Brooklyns. In he eighth he gave a base on balls, then an home run followed.
He gave another base on balls, then an error by McGraw and a hard single gave Brooklyn two more runs.

It required ten innings to decide the contest be tween these teams, May 2, at Chicago, Ill., when they opened the major league championship season in that city. The game was a strange mixture of good and bad playing, in which the Louisvilles scored a deserved victory after a close and exciting scored a deserved victory after a close and exciting finish. Both pitchers did good work at critical stages. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Anson, McGann and Shugart, and two basers by Ryan (two), Stewart and Pfefer. The visitors took the lead by bunching their hits in the first and third innings. The Chicagos drew up slowly until they finally tied the score in the ninth. Then the Louisvilles batted in the winning run in the tenth. Pfefer distinguished himself by a running one handed catch of a hot ball from Stewart's bat, and assisting in a double play. The feature was a triple play by Dahlen, Stewart and Anson.

The Chicagos had little trouble in reversing the above result. May 4, when errors and bases on balls were the chief cause of the Louisville's defeat, as the visitors were credited, with the only earned run of the game. In the third inning, with two out, Shugart dropped an easy fly ball, filling the bases. Then McDermott sent three men to their base on balls, forcing in three runs. Errors by Glasscock and Clark, followed by several good hits, gave the Chicagos four more runs in the seventh, and virtually the game. Wonderful throws by Ryan and Lange, in third and fourth innings, respectively, prevented the visitors from scoring. The long safe hits were a home run by Shugart and a double bagger by Anson. Stewart and Glasscock each made some nice plays in their positions.

Frank H. Connaughton, the clever all around player, who is this season filling the position of short stop on the Kansas City team, of the Western League, was born Jan. 1, 1869, at Clinton, Mass., and it was at his native place that he learned to play ball. He was connected with several prominent amateur teams at Clinton, and his hard hitting and excellent work behind the bat led to his first professional engagement, in 1891, with the Woonsocket Club, of the New England League. He did good work that season for the Woonsockets. Merritt, of the Cincinnatis, was playing with the same team that year, and Connaughton gave him a lively rub for supremacy in batting. Company him allively rub for supremacy in batting. Company him allively rub for supremacy in batting. Company him the Lewiston (Me.) Club. In 1893 Manager Manning signed him for his Savannah team, of the Southern League, and he remained there until that league disbanded, when he returned North, and finished out the season with the Lewiston Club, of the New England League. While with the Savannah Club Connaughton showed himself to be a very good all round player, being placed on second and third Frank H. Connaughton, the clever all around bases, as well as behind the bat, and acquitted himself very successfully. Connaughton was always a hard and reliable batsman, a fast and daring base runand reliable batsman, a fast and daring base runner, and was looked upon as one of the best all 'round players in the New England League while he was connected with it. In January, 1894, Connaughton signed with the Boston Club, of the National League and American Association, as one of its catchers, and during the following season he took part in thirty eight championship contests, in thirty-tiwo of which he filled the short stop's position in a very creditable manner. He ranked high both as a batsman and fielder in the official averages of the major league for the season of 1894. At the beginning of this season the Boston Club had a surplus of players on its pay roll, and it was plainly evident that some of them would have to be released, or remain on the players' bench during the greater part of the season. Connaughton was one of those who preferred regular duty to remaining idle, and he was released to the Kansas City Club, of the Western League, of which Jimmy Manning is the manager, and no one knows Connaughton's worth as a ball player better than Manning. He is 5ft, 9in, tail and weighs about 165tb.

New York vs. Philadelphia.

These teams met May 1, at the Polo Grounds, this city, after three postponements on account of rain. city, after three postponements on account of rain. The New Yorks took a lead early in the game and were never headed. Weyhing, who started in to pitch for the Philadelphias, was wild in giving men their base on bails, and was freely batted. He was replaced by Smith after the third inning, but the game was virtually lost then, although he did much better work than did his predecessor, and prevented the New Yorks from scoring again. Rusle was in good form, and pitched a steady game throughout. Only one run was earned off his pitching. Haliman and Tiernan led their respective teams at the bat. The long safe hits were double baggers by Doyle and Farrell. The fielding of Stafford and Haliman was excellent as was also that done by Davis.

After a hard, uphill fight the Philadelphias won again, May 4, when, with the score standing 8 to 3 against them, they went in on the ninth inning and tailled seven runs, off five safe hits, a couple of errors, two bases on bails and a wild pitch, and turned apparent defeat into a great victory. Up to that time the home team could do little or nothing with Russle's pitching, making only five hits off him. Smith, who started in to pitch for the Philadelphias, was so freely batted that he retired at the end of the sixth inning, and Hodson was substituted. In the ninth inning Grady took Hodson's place at the bat, and then Carsey pitched the last half of the ninth. The New Yorks outbatted their opponents, but their errors and the bases on bails given by Rusle proved costly, especially in the ninth inning. The long safe hits were double baggers by Delehanty (two), Thompson, Van Haltren, Davis, Doyle, Burke and Rusle.

Inability to bat Hart's pitching, May 1, at Pittsburg, Pa., was the chief cause of Cincinnati's defeat. Hart was in excellent form and had the visitors completely at his mercy, allowing them only one solitary safe hit. Parrott also pitched a good game; in one inning only, the third, were the home team able to bunch their hits. Fully eight thousand persons witnessed the game, it being the opening game of the major league championship season. A street parade was one of the attractive features.

Dwyer was freely batted, especially by Pettz, whose five safe hits included a triple and two double baggers. However, most of the hits made off Dwyer came after chances had been offered for putting out the side. The other long safe hits, besides the ones above mentioned, were a triple bagger by Quinn and double baggers by George Miller, Lyons, Mc-Phee and Ewing.

Pittaburg vs. Brooklyn.

Superior all 'round work enabled the Pittaburgs to defeat the Brooklyns, May 6, at Pittaburg, Pa-Colcolough proved a puzzler to the visiting batamen, holding them down to four safe hits, including a double bagger. Gumbert was an easy mark for his former companions, and they batted him hard and often, especially in the second and fourth innings. Kinslow and Anderson led their respective teams in batting. The former's three safe hits included two double baggers, while Anderson made a double and a single, and scored the only run credited to his team. The other long safe hits were a home run by Donovan, triple baggers by Stenzel, Peckley and Colcolough, and a double by Gumbert. Brooktay. T. R. B. O. A.E. [Pitristukg. T. R. B. O. A.E. By a lucky bunching of their hits in the sixth inning. May 6, at 8t. Louis, Mo., the Bostons were enabled to turn what appeared like almost sure defeatinto a great victory. The home team started off like winners, by scoring five runs in the second and third innings, and held the lead until the sixth inning, when the Bostons forged ahead and finally won. Both pitchers were batted hard at times. The long safe bits were home runs by Nash, Connor and Lyons, and triple baggers by Nash and Ganzel, and double baggers by Tucker and Peliz. Rain delayed the game twenty minutes.

Both pitchers were in excellent trim, and both did good work in their positions. Both were batted quite freely, but in most instances managed to keep the hits well apart. This is amply demonstrated by the fact that nineteen men were left on bases. The long safe hits were double baggers by Vaughn and Doyle. The excellent work of Smith and Stafford in their respective positions was the fielding feature. Tiernan led in batting, with three cracking singles.

the Cleveland Club makes immediate arrangements to send back to his home in Little Rock the little mascot, he would arrest the entire team on its next visit to Louisville. Mr. Dehler forwarded the

The opening game of the season of the National Association of Great Britain, was played May 4, at Bahham, Eng., between the Whiskeyites and Typewriters, the former then winning by 11 to 10. About six hundred persons were present, including United States Ambassador Bayard and Mrs. Bayard, P. A. Collins, United States Consul, most of the officials of the American Embassy and Consulate, the Lord Mayor of London, and many other prominent Americans and Englishmen.

President Robison, of the Cleveland Club, on May 2, telegraphed President Young, of the National League and American Association, threatening to take the Pitcher Hodson controversy into the courts for settlement. He claims a breach of faith on the part of the Boston management by letting Hodson go to the Philadelphia Club, and says he will settle the question of a manager's authority definitely now.

CRICKET.

After an interval of about ten years cricket was revived in Portland, Ore., last season, and some of the o'd players were unearthed, and showed up very prominently at the end of the season. Several matches were played, the Portland Club winning prominently at the end of the season. Several matches were played, the Portland Club winning four and the Mt. Taber Club one. There are several very good players in Portland, and C. W. Lawrence, formerly a prominent Australian cricketer, made the highest score, 103, not out. J. Leisk, an old Canadian player, was second, and A. St. M. Mackintosh, of Portsmouth, Eng., third in batting. The bowling honors were carried off by Jonathan Bourne Jr., Mackintosh, Lawrence and Flinders. A club was also started at Astoria, where some very good cricket was shown, especially by R. Gibson, Wilkinson and Frank M. Gunn. There is every promise of a deal of cricket being played this season, as the Multnomah and Portland Amateur Athietic Clubs have organized teams, and, with Astoria, an association is to be formed to arrange pennant matches. Each club has a membership of over five hundred, so there is plenty of material from which to choose. It is very likely a team will come down from British Columbia, and a visit from the California cricketers is contemplated.

THOMAS ARMITAGE, a well known English professional, who came to this country seven years ago, taking up his residence in Chicago, Ill., was declared insane, May 2, by a judge of that city, and was sent to the State Asylum. He was born forty-seven years ago, and for several seasons formed one of the Yorkshire County Eleven. In 1876-77 he visited Australia with Lillywhite's team. For three years after coming to this country he played with the Pullman Club and other clubs in the vicinity of Chicago. He retired four years ago from the field, and for the last year has been ill, his disorder resulting in a violent form of insanity.

THE EXHIBITION SEASON in Philadelphia, Pa., was opened May 4, when five games were played, the most important one being between the Haverford College eleven and the Belmont Club, the former proving victorious by 59 to 46, the totals of the first inning. The University of Pennsylvania also scored a victory over the Philadelphia Club by 77 to 55 in an one-inning game. The scoring was small in the five games, with the exception of the one between the Merion and Wayne teams, when the former won by 170 to 75, H. C. Thayer making 47 in fine form.

AN EXHIBITION GAME between the Brooklyn and New Jersey Athletic Clubs was played May 4, at Bergen Point, N. J., and resulted in a draw. The Brooklyn eleven batted first and scored 157, F. J. Prendergast carrying his bat through the inning and making 86 runs, not out, in fine form. The New Jersey Athletic Club had scored 98 for the loss of five wickets when stumps were drawn. H. C. Wright batted well for 34 runs, not out, on behalf of the home team.

The Alameda and Bohemian Clubs, of San Fran-home team.

THE ALAMEDA and Bohemian Clubs, of San Francisco, Cal., contended April 21, when the latter won by 112 to 33, the totals of the first inning. E. Hood scored 40 runs, not out, for the Alameda eleven. The other championship contest of the California Association on the same day was between the Pacific and California Clubs. The Pacific team scored 205, of which George Theobald compiled 54 runs, not out, while the California team scored only 34.

AT PHENIXVILLE, Pa., May 4, the home team de feated the Cambria Club by 60 to 22 in an one inning graphs

WOODCOCK, the English professional, who for several seasons successfully coached the Haverford College team, was credited with a remarkable bit of bowling, April 26, at Leicester, Eng., in the opening fixture of the season between the county team and sixteen colts. Going on late in the inning Woodcock actually took eight wickets in thirty-three balls at a cost of only two runs. The first one was caught by Hillyard off him and the last seven were clean bowled.

In SEVERAL of the exhibition games played May 4 by the Philadelphia clubs professionals participated, Pacey, of the Belmont Club, capturing six wickets for 1s runs, and Hall, for the Haverford College team, taking five wickets at the cost of only 17 runs. Guest also bowled well for the University of Pennsylvania against the Philadelphia Club, securing six wickets at the cost of 18 runs.

sylvania against the Philadelphia Club, securing six wickets at the cost of 18 runs.

THE WANDERERS, of this city, opened their season May 4, at staten Island, N. Y., they then defeating the St. Austin School eleven by 26 to 18, the totals of the first inning. The school team scored only 20 in the second inning. The only feature of the contest was the effective bowling of A. Richardson, of the Wanderers, he capturing six wickets, including three with consecutive balls, at the cost of only 7 runs, in the first inning.

The GROUNDS of the Germantown Club, at Manheim, Philadelphia, were opened, May 4, by a match between its first eleven and the next eighteen, the latter unexpectedly winning by 111 to 64, the totals of the first inning. W. H. Wehner made 31 runs cleverly for the eighteen, and W. M. George, of the same side, bowled six wickets for 28 runs.

The WANDERERS, of Philadelphia, Pa., opened their season May 4, when they defeated the Lansdowne Club by 36 to 19, in an one inning game. Faulkrod and Winterbottom bowled successfully for their respective teams, the former capturing five wickets for 11 runs and the latter six wickets at the cost of 19 runs.

cost of 19 runs.

T. CLARKE, of the New Jersey Athletic Club, played as a substitute for an absent member of the Brooklyn team in the recent match between these clubs, and distinguished himself by making 37 out of the 40 runs scored in partnership with Prendergast for the fall of the tenth wicket.

S. Pike and Wm. Tomlinson, two well known English professionals, will assist George Bromhead this season in coaching the members of the Germantown Club, of Philadelphia, Pa.

THE Bank Clerks' Athletic Association, of Phila-delphia, Pa., disbanded May 2. Frank Muhlenberg, the best batsman of the cricket contingent, has joined the Belmont Club.

THE Melrose Club, of Philadelphia, Pa., this year takes the name of the York Road County Club. Its cricket team failed to show up May 4, when an ex-hibition game was scheduled with the Tioga Club.

ATHLETIC.

THE CALIFORNIA COLLEGE TEAM. Interesting Particulars and Records of the Men Now Coming East in Quest of Honors.

The team of Pacific coast collegians who have arranged to engage in a series of dual field meetings with the crack performers of the different leading colleges of the Eastern country are now nearing their destination, they having taken their departure from San Francisco, Cal., on Wednesday, May 2. They are picked members of the University of California, located at Berkeley, and all have gained enviable reputations through the excellence of their performances on the athletic grounds of the Golden State. This fact, together with the confidence reperformances on the athletic grounds of the Golden State. This fact, together with the confidence reposed in their superior abilities by their friends, added to their desire to engage in friendly and laudable rivalry with their brother collegians of the East, induced them to make overtures for their present trip. The team will also participate in the annual championship games of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, to be held at Berkeley Oval, this city, May 25, 28, and likewise take part in the Western Intercollegiate championship meeting, to be held at Chicago, Ill., on June 1. Whether the newcomers will succeed in cutting a wide swath in the ranks of their rival athletes of the East remains to be seen, but in any event they may be depended upon to do themselves much credit, and upon their return to the Land of the Setting Sun have something handsome to show to their friends as the result of their journey. Besides this, the intercourse of the college athletes of the two sections will have a tendency to cement the bonds of fraternity between them, and lead, perhaps, to the annual recurrence of similar con tests. The team is composed of twelve men, and the following information regarding them and their achievements will be perused with much interest by those with whom they are to meet on cinder path and infield during the next few months:

Fred W. Koch, captain, middle distance runner, high jumper; Chester Woolsey, broad jumper; Ernest Dyer, hurdler; Harry Torrey, hurdler; Louis Merwin, walker; Theodore Barnes, sprinter; Robert Edgren, hammer thrower and shot putter; Philip Bradley, middle distance runner, Melville Dozler, borod jumper and betycle rider. To these will probably be added James Scoggins, sprinter, and Everet Brown, distance runner.

Arthur W. North is manager of the team. He is a Californian and entered college with the class of broad jumper and bicycle rider. To these will probably be added James Scoggins, sprinter, and Everet Brown, distance runner.

Arthur W. North is manager of the team. He is a Californian and entered college with the class of '95. He took an active part in athletics and was captain of the 'Varsity track team in 1894. Because of a severe attack of typhold fever he was unable to continue in athletics this season, but on returning to college was elected manager of the team.

Captain Fred W. Koch, of the California team, was born in Philadelphia in 1871. He began to compete in the Philadelphia Manual Training School, where he made fair records in the half mile run, the high jump and the shot put. Going to California in 1890, Koch entered the University of California in 1892, and at once attracted attention by his ability as an all around athlete. Since then he has put the sixteen pound shot 40ft. 2in., high jumped 5ft. 10in., run 440yds. In 51%s. and the half in 2m. 1½s., breaking the coastrecord in the latter, and the University of California record in the shot put with over 39ft. Koch is what is known as a "sure man" in athletics, as he always does his best performances in competition. He has never been beaten in the half mile, and as he has a remarkable finish he may make it hot for the Eastern runners.

hot for the Eastern runners.

Harry Torrey was born in Boston, Mass., and is now twenty-two years of age. In his freshman year he showed great promise as a hurdler by running close to Walter Henry. Torrey is now 5ft. 83-5in, and weighs 140b in athletic costume. He ran the 220yd, burdles in 364-5.

weighs 140fb in athletic costume. He ran the 220yd, hurdles in 265₈s., on a curved track, which is excellent work. He also ran the 120yd, hurdles in 165₈s., two watches catching his time as 16s. flat. This is running in championship form on any track. Ernest Dyer is another great hurdler, and this year shows promise of making wonderful time at his favorite distance. Dyer is a native of California. He is twenty-two years of age, stands 5ft. 105₈in. tall, and weighs in athletic suit 160fb. Beginning to run in 1893, he ran the 220yd, hurdles in 27₈s, and the 120yd, hurdle cei in 165₈s. It is the California opinion that both Dyer and Torrey are likely to run under 16s. If pressed. Besides these distances Dyer has run the 75yd, hurdles in 105₈s., the 100yd, hurdles in 115₈s, and the 50yd, hurdles in 65₈s.

distances Dyer has run the 73yd. furrdies in 10½s., the 100yd. hurdles in 11½s. and the 50yd. hurdles in 6½s.

Philip R. Bradley was born in California nineteen years ago. He is 5ft. 8in. tall and weighs 140lb in his running suit. Bradley has run 220yds. in 24½s., 440yds. run in 53½s. and the half-mile in 2m. 3s. He is one of the strongest finishers on the coast. If Bradley is pushed he can, without doubt, run the distance very close to 2m.

Chester Woolsey is another California born athlete. He is twenty-two years old, 5ft. 11in. and weighs 168lb. He began to jump in 1892. In the intercollegiate field day last year Woolsey cleared 22ft, in the running broad jump. Last year the broad jump was won with 22ft. lin. in the American intercollegiate championships. Woolsey has never been beaten in his favorite event. This year he is jumping in very good form, and will make a strong bid for championship honors in the East. Woolsey has made 44ft, sin. in the hop, step and jump, which is also a very good record.

William Chandler Patterson was born in California, and is now. Wantercon.

also a very good record.

William Chandler Patterson was born in California, and is now twenty-one years of age. He is str. 11in. in height and weighs 148th. Patterson commenced his victorious career in 1890, when he cleared the stick at about 5ft. 4in. Since then he has raised his record to 5ft. 111-4in., breaking the coast record twice, and has cleared over 6ft. in practice. As the event was won in the East last year with a jump of 5ft. 10½in., there can be no doubt of Patterson's rank as a jumper. Besides his phenomenal high jump he has cleared 2lft. In the running broad, has made a running hop, step and jump of 43ft. 6in., and on the track has run the 120yds. hurdle race in 16½s.

James Scoggins, California; age, twenty-two; height, 5ft. 8½in.; weight, 143fb.—Is without a doubt the fastest sprinter that ever hit the cinder track on the coast. He began to run in '93. Since then he has run 50yds. in 5½s., the 75yds. in 7½s. 100yds. in 10s., and 22yds. in 23½s. Seoggish has made his fast time and won his races the has never been beaten from scratch) by the phenomenal spurt that he makes in the last twenty-five yards. This year he has been sick with malaria, and so has not reached his usual form.

Theodore Barnes is a freshman who shows promise of being a great sprinter in the near future. He was born in Nebraska, is nineteen years old, 5ft. sin. tall and weights 148fb. Barnes began to run last September. He won the 100yds. maiden on the Olympic ladies' day in 1is. Since then he has run in 10¾s. He has never been beaten. Barnes' strongest race is at present the 220yds. He has run in 23½s. on a curved track, being pocketed on the turn. As Barnes has improved to a very marked extent during the last few weeks he will, undoubtedly, lower his time in the East. He runs a strong 440yds., finishing in 53½s.

Louis T. Merwin was born in New Jersey. He is twenty-one years of age, stand 6ft. 2in. in his stockings, and weighs 170fb. He walked one term in his freshman year, when he was taken sick and had to leave college for a time. Returning this year, he recommenced training, and has walked the mile in 7m. 34s., winning easily. He has walked 100yds. In 16s.

Melville Dozier was born in California twenty recommenced training, and has walked the mile in rm. 34s., winning easily. He has walked 100yds. in 16s.

Meiville Dozter was born in California twenty years ago. He is 5ft. 9½in. tall and weighs 155b in his riding suit. Dozter's specialty is the two mile bloycle race, which he has ridden in 5m. 2os. on a running track. Dozter has a good chance to win his event in the East. Besides the bloycle Dozter has taken up the broad jump, and a short time ago astonished the track captain by clearing 2ift. 1iin. in a contest. This is a phenomenal jump for a man who is new at the event and is first class anywhere. Everett Brown is a Californian, agod eighteen years, height 5ft. 8½in.; weight, 143b. He began to run the mile about two years ago. This year he has trained steadily, and made his favorite distance in the excellent time of 4m. 38½s, within 2½s, of the coast record. If he had not slightly misjudged the pace, and run his first half mile too fast, he would have beaten this time.

Robert W. Edgren was born in Chicago, Ill., and is twenty-one years old. He stands 6ft. lin. tall. and weighs 193½ in his athletic suit. He begant o throw the hammer in April, 1893, and has been steadily raising his record until the present time. Last July he broke the coast record with a throw of 11lift. 3in. and has raised this several times since. In the U. C. games he raised the U. C. record to 123ft. 7½in., within 1½in. of the giant Hickok's American intercollegiate record. His other records are: Hammer throw (practice), 13lft.; 12lb hammer throw, 148ft. 6in.; 16lb shot put. 38ft. 1lin.; 12lb shot put, 45ft. 6in.; pole vault, 9ft. 7in.

The Fight Against Roby.

The officials of Hawthorne Park and Harlem race tracks, of Chicago, Ill., have inaugurated a lively war against the Roby track, stating as their reason for the attack that last Fall an agreement reason for the attack that hast Fail an agreement was entered into between the three associations that Roby should not open its gates until Nov. 15 of this year. Racing began at the last named track, however, April 15, and when Hawthorne opened, 29, the attendance was limited for the first three days, while the crowds at Roby were constantly increasing. On May 3 a free gate was adopted at Hawthorne, with the agreement that when Harlem opened, May 13, no admission wound be charged at that track. Roby continued to attract the greater crowds, and on 4 applied for a Jockey Club license and voluntarily abolished its foreign books. On the same day Hawthorne notified horse owners at Roby their racers would not be admitted to Hawthorne stables. During the afternoon of 4 warrants were issued by partics whose identity and instructions were unknown, calling for the arrest of the officials and all the bookmakers at Hawthorne. President James Olicary, of Roby, denied that the move was an act of retailation on his part, although he could not account for the origin of the warrants. President Ed. Corrigan, at Hawthorne, made a statement at the time that the warrants would not be executed, and up to the time of going to press we have received no information that they have been served.

A CARD FROM

Now that the theatrical season is drawing to a close, I wish to thank my numerous professional friends for the hearty appreciation and support they have given my various compositions. Each season I have given the public something new in popular songs. The past season I issued "WHILE THE DANCE GOES ON," "MUD PIE DAYS," "FLORENCE," "FIFTY YEARS AGO," and my latest ballad hit, "CAST ASIDE." These songs have been sung over the land by hundreds of my professional friends. The coming season will find me to the front as heretofore, with original ideas, the best of descriptive songs with heart interest, one of the greatest topical songs ever written, and many surprises, of which due notice will be given.

Thanking you, one and all, I remain,

SAVED.

"Th en you can never hope to love me!" He had been pacing the floor nervously, but as he uttered these words he turned and faced the object of his remarks.

"Mr. Clinton," replied the beautiful girl he addressed," much as 1 regret to pain you, I fear the demands upon my time are so great as to preclude the possibility of devoting enough of my attention to the subject which you have mentioned. As president of the New Woman's Advancement Club, as editor of The Bloomer, with the prospect of soon going on the lecture platform, together with my new book, 'Brain without Sex,' now in course of preparation, I fear that it would be a hopeless task for me to take any further engagements; and, do not misunderstand me, I do not wish to relegate the trivial affairs of life to mere oblivion, and I believe most thoroughly in recreation as a means of sus-

In this sense I might occasionally descend to your level, and share your feelings, but it would be too much to expect this from me as a constant thing. Perhaps at some Juture time I might have more leisure, but I am afraid that I could never really love you in the sense that you use the term. One hour later, in the little hall room of his boarting house, not many miles from the scene whet this story opens, a young man sat with claspe hands and an expression of radiant satisfaction of his face; and then, as he mechanically turned the picture of the woman he had loved towards the wall, he murmured gratefully to himself: "What narrow escape! They are the bones of buffaloes long since dead, and the Indians collect them from the plains and take them to the track. There is a fellow in St. Louis who pays them something for them, $1 a ton, 1 think, delivered at the track side.

The bones are used in sugar refning. I believe buffalo bones are better than any other kind for that purpose. Of course the redskins sometimes try to ring in other, bones, perhaps those of human beings.

"It is a strange thing," said the former member of Congress, as he chewed on a cough drop, "that the noble savage, who o wes his extermination to the whites, should be able to get such a poetic revenge. The American people are said to owe many of their troubles to candy and sweet things, and there are those redskins out on the Canadian Pacific road industriously collecting bones and doing their best to get even by encouraging the production of candy."—N. SUGAR AND MUSCLE.

The subject of sugar as a food producing nuscular power has been discussed by Dr. Vaughan Harely. From a brief summary of his paper we make the following extracts. During a twenty-four hours' fast on one day water alone was druik; on another five hundred grammes of sugar was taken an an equal quantity of water. It was thus found that the sugar not only prolonged the time before fatigue occurred, but caused an increase of sixty-one to seventy-six per cent. In the muscular work done. THE DOG AND THE POORHOUSE.

An incident which would seem to prove that a dog learns to understand the language of his country was related by one willing to vouch for its truth. And this is the story:

A dog had come to be very old in a family in a country village. One of the family remarked on a certain day, as the dog lay in the room:

"I think Sancho ought to be put out of the way. He is only a nuisance now."

That afternoon Sancho disappeared, and as the days passed did not return. In the course of a week a nelghbor said: "I see that your dog is up at the poorhouse." On inquiry it was learned that Sancho, having called at the poorhouse and been kindly received, had continued on as a guest. And ever after, although he sometimes made a brief call at his own home, he lived at the Town Farm, and there peacefully ended his dog's life.—Our Animal Friends.

A FABLE OF THE SPRINGTIME.

Once upon a time the Sun and the Wind disputed as to which was the stronger.

Presently a wayfarer approached, and, to settle their differences, they agreed that superiority should be conceded to that one who could produce the most marked effect upon the man.

"Oh., I won't do a thing to him," remarked the Wind, and blew violently.

But the wayfarer only drew his coat more closely about him and tossed down a ball or two of Medford.

"Now watch me," said the Sun and shone fervidly, whereat the wayfarer thought it was Spring and changed his flannels.

Whenever thereafter the Wind became boastful, the Sun had but to point to a little mound in the churchyard.—Detroit Tribune.

THE FAVORITE BURLESQUE COMEDIANS,

Have scored another big success, and were the talk of Boston last week in their NEW HYPNOTIC BURLESQUE, entitled

Not by Du Maurier, but All Rights Reserved.

HERE ARE A FEW OF THE MANY NOTICES:

THE BOSTON HERALD, April 30, '96, says: One of the distinct and positive hits of the show was made by the protean artists, Le Clair and Leslie, who presented a new burlesque on the popular dramatic production of 'Triby.' In Handsome and statuesque Harry Le Clair made an idea Triby, while Eddie Leslie, as Sweigh, and the standard of the formiest travestes ever seen on the local stage, and the numerous ludicrous interpolations which the clever performers introduced into the text and action of the piece elicited roars of laughter.

THE GLOBE of April 30, '95, says: Le Clair and Leslie's mew burlesque on 'Triby,' in the piece elicited roars of laughter.

THE GLOBE of April 30, '95, says: Le Clair and Leslie's mew burlesque on 'Triby,' was the funnist and most ambitious thing these artists have undertaken.
